Chairperson's Report

Dear Rose Friends

I am sure that you all found the rain in September a wonderful bonus. Refilling our water tanks, refreshing our gardens and best of all giving a boost to the Spring rose growth. Let's hope we get some more rain before the end of October. The rainfall was a great help to encourage new buds and the best blooms for our Spring Rose Show on 20 October at Mater Dei School. Many thanks for everyone who has already volunteered. If you haven't already, please consider coming along on the day and volunteering for a short time. We look forward to seeing you all visiting the Show and enjoying the roses.

A reminder that the 'Exhibiting Roses Workshop' is being held on 6 October at the Macarthur Sustainability Centre. If you have haven't booked your place at the workshop, it is worthwhile doing so. These workshops are a wonderful opportunity to learn how to prepare, display and exhibit your roses from some of the best rose exhibitors in NSW. Ted and Meryl Morphett, Macarthur's own Ian and Maureen Thackeray and Graham and Janet Wright will be there to guide you through all the details of exhibiting roses. It is an opportunity too good to be missed. Call Rosalie Vine on 02 4625 6067 to secure your place at the workshop. This is a 'don't miss out' event. The brochure for the workshop is on the NSW Rose website at www.rosesocietynsw.org.au/rose-society-events.

Christmas is just around the corner and plans are well underway for our Christmas lunch, which will be held on our usual meeting day of Saturday, 14 December at Macarthur Sustainability Centre. This is always a very convivial and social event and we encourage all members to attend and catch up with each other in an informal and joyous atmosphere.

Grinners Catering from Camden, which is a gold licensed, multi award winning catering company, will be providing the catering for the Christmas Party. The menu will include both traditional food such as roast turkey, roast ham, sticky date pudding and pavlova, and also a selection of salads and fresh fruits.

Page 3 of this newsletter has the details on how to book your place at the table.

Phalaenopsis orchids were the topic of Daniel Webb's very entertaining and informative talk at our last meeting. Daniel gave us great information to help guide us to success the next time we succumb to temptation and purchase a Phalaenopsis orchid. Please contact me if you missed out on getting the information sheet and I will forward it to you. Many thanks to Carol McVeigh for putting us in touch with Daniel.

The guest speaker at our next meeting will be Mark McGuire who will talk about growing roses in pots. This can be particularly challenging in the hot dry weather we have been experiencing. Mark McGuire will be able to provide many insights into growing hybrid teas, floribundas and miniature roses in pots.

Finally, a reminder there is no meeting in October as our show is on the 20th. Our next meeting is on 9 November at Elderslie Public School.

Cultural Notes

As October begins and full spring growth gets rapidly underway, a regular pest and disease prevention program should be well underway. As with everything 'prevention is better than cure' and a regular maintenance program will ensure the best roses possible.

As roses need to be able to draw nutrients up from the soil, weekly watering with GoGo Juice will help to improve and maintain the soil bacteria and support the rose bush roots to draw up the essential nutrients. This is particularly important during the growing season and during the dry conditions we are experiencing. The amount of nutrients that the rose can absorb is regulated by the amount of heat and moisture in the soil. An inadequate watering regime will result in fewer nutrients being absorbed and lead to smaller flowers and stunted rose bushes. Despite the solid downpour of rain that we had in September, the conditions are still very dry and a regular program of watering will help keep your rose stems and blooms growing and thriving.

If you water in the evening, make sure that you don't water over the foliage as leaving the foliage wet for longer than seven hours can encourage fungal diseases to develop and transfer to other rose bushes.

The moisture sitting on the leaf surface activates the fungus. The fungus is unable to activate if the leaf surface is continuously wet for a lesser period of time. When a spot comes to a leaf vein it crosses it and infected plants defoliate slowly from the bottom up. If the characteristic black spot appears on the lower leaves then damage has already occurred. These leaves are going to turn yellow and then fall off. Fungicides available from local nurseries and hardware stores are effective if applied consistent with the instructions on the label. Almost all of them give protection for 5-7 days. Creating a regular spraying regime is the best way to prevent black spot.

Unfortunately, the recent, welcome rain and the rising temperatures have made ideal conditions for black spot to appear. Don't panic, if it has appeared already. Pick off the damaged leaves and clean up any fallen leaves to reduce the likelihood of the spores falling into the soil or transferring to other rose bushes. Do not compost them, but put them in a bag and dispose of in the garbage bin. Eco-fungicide, Triforine and Mancozeb Plus (mancozeb with sulphur) are the most effective prevention and treatment methods for black spot.

As the weather heats up and the gusty, spring equinox winds begin, start to look for your red coloured, basal water shoots that will emerge from the graft. Remember to treat these soft stems gently and ensure they are tied securely so they do not break in the equinoxal winds. These water shoots will be the most productive rose bearing stems next year, so they need to be nurtured and cared for now.

Happy Gardening!

Bigger Blooms

If growing roses for competition and exhibition, you want long rose stems for the house or to give away, now is the time to regularly finger prune. It doesn't require any tools but your thumb and finger to rub off any unwanted buds as soon as they are large enough.

In each hybrid tea rose bush there is the possibility of three eyes. The centre one usually develops first and if it is damaged the two on the sides will break dormancy and begin to grow.

Sometimes, particularly during the spring, these side buds start to grow very quickly, resulting in small spindly flower stems instead of one large bloom. Pinch them out to let the centre bloom thrive.

Floribundas and minifloras are treated slightly differently when finger pruning. They form multi-head sprays from their centre bud first. This centre bud will grow large and die before the other buds reach maturity. Pinching the centre flower out when it is just a soft bud, will ensure that the other buds will grow together into a nice spray with bigger flowers.

Exhibitors Workshop

The Exhibitors Workshop is on once again and all are welcome to participate in this outstanding opportunity to learn all about staging roses for exhibition.

The workshop agenda is designed to be very 'hands on' and participants will get the opportunity to observe the experienced exhibitors and participate, with their assistance, in learning how to stage various classes of rose exhibits. There will be small groups of participants rotating between the different demonstrations providing the maximum opportunity for everyone to learn and enjoy the day.

Participating in these workshops will help to grow your confidence and skills, learn the best way to prepare your roses, including timing growth for the shows and how to store and care for the roses once picked for the show. Call Kristin Dawson on:

Rose Show Volunteer Schedule

Our annual Spring Rose Show at Mater Dei Country Fair is fast approaching. The main purpose of the Rose Shows that will be held over the coming weeks is to foster cultivation, improvement and appreciation of the rose through the public exhibition of roses in their most perfect phase of possible beauty.

The Spring Rose Show offers us all the opportunity to participate in this event either as exhibitors, viewers of the exhibited roses and of course as volunteers on the day.

Thank you to those who have already volunteered and those who intend to volunteer on the day. We look forward to seeing you all there. The sale of gift boxes of roses and rose bunches are a great incentive for people to visit the Rose Show, enjoy the roses, ask questions and support the Rose Show. Most of all they help us to view and show the roses at their very best.

Donations of any spare roses that you may have in your garden would be particularly appreciated.

Please drop your spare roses off at the Rose Show Hall so that our volunteers can make up the boxes and bunches of roses for sale.

Map of the location and surrounding area to Mater Dei School 229 Macquarie Grove Road, Camden 2570

"There had never been such roses as those that bloomed that summer. They clambered everywhere and dripped as if perspiring the heaviest most intoxicating perfume, which seemed to make the very masonry drunk. The senses fused; sometimes these roses emitted low but intolerably piercing pentatonic melodies which were the sound of their deep crimson colour and yet we heard them inside our nostrils."
